

The country has moved to the right substantially, since the 1991 Telecommunications act. Why will it not move further? At a time when markets are melting down we are all market fundamentalists! Pure Capitalism was discredited long before pure socialism. What works best is a combination of the two.